Subject scope of asset declarations

What assets should be disclosed in the asset declarations?

The scope of information to be disclosed in the asset declarations depends on the specific provisions of legal acts relating to individual "professional groups". The multitude of legal acts constituting the basis for submission and introducing template forms for particular groups of people, as well as the differences between them make it practically impossible to have a uniform approach to completing asset declarations and the content to be disclosed. The current legal status indicates a number of problems of a legal, interpretative and technical nature. Detailed information on the subject scope of
